

What are you going to do in your term breaks this year? Work in town, or go volunteering in Africa?

From doing wildlife conservation work in the vast game reserves of Kenya, assisting in a school, working in the community, in orphanages, children's homes to veterinary practices and the national newspaper of Kenya. Volunteering can be a rewarding and educating experience that will give any future C.V an advantage. From 2 weeks to several months Kenya is an ideal place to volunteer. Year round hot weather, friendly people, dramatic landscapes and some of the world's most spectacular wildlife. So if you want a summer break or gap year adventure with significance combined with a desire to travel and learn, visit our website at www.inspirekenya.com. It's simpler and cheaper than you may think!
